

Orton-Gillingham: Characteristics

- 1) Alphabetic / phonetic (synthetic phonics)
- 2) Structured with a clear scope and sequence
- 3) Moves from simple to complex (from smaller to bigger units)
- 4) Repetition for automaticity
- 5) Sensitive to socio-emotional needs
- 6) Every part of lesson is short
- 7) Clinical driven and diagnostic and prescriptive
- 8) Multisensory
- 9) Teaches decoding, spelling, handwriting, fluency, vocabulary (via morphology) and comprehension
- 10) Goes as fast as you can and as slowly as you must
- 11) Incorporates evidence based, effective learning strategies of:
 - Spaced practice
 - Interleaving
 - Retrieval
 - Elaboration
 - Concrete examples
 - Dual coding

Components of O-G Lesson

- 1) Card drill – review
- 2) Words to Read (decoding, fluency) and Extension (vocabulary, grammar, thinking skills, analogy, following directions, etc.)
- 3) Auditory: Sounds (review – say sound and child writes)
- 4) Auditory: Spelling (structured)
- 5) New Phonogram
- 6) Rules or Syllabication or Grammar or Mechanics of Writing
- 7) Learned Words
- 8) Dictation
- 9) Oral and Silent Reading
- 10) Fluency
- 11) Morphology

Weinstein, Y., Sumeracki, M., Caviglioli, O. (2018). Understanding How We Learn: A Visual Guide

